National architectural magazine now in its fifteenth year, covering period-inspired design 1700–1950. Commissioned photographs show real homes, inspired by the past but livable. Historical and interpretive rooms are included; new construction, additions, and new kitchens and baths take their place along with restoration work. A feature on furniture appears in every issue. Product coverage is extensive. Experts offer advice for homeowners and designers on finishing, decorating, and furnishing period homes of every era. A garden feature, essays, archival material, events and exhibitions, and book reviews round out the editorial. Many readers claim the beautiful advertising—all of it design-related, no "lifestyle" ads—is as important to them as the articles.

“Guides readers toward the road less consumptive, offering practical advice and moral support while making a convincing case that individual actions . . . do matter.” —Elizabeth Royte, author, Garbage Land and Bottlemania Like many people, Beth Terry didn't think an individual could have much impact on the environment. But while laid up after surgery, she read an article about the staggering amount of plastic polluting the oceans, and decided then and there to kick her plastic habit. In Plastic-Free, she shows you how you can too, providing personal anecdotes, stats about the environmental and health problems related to plastic, and individual solutions and tips on how to limit your plastic footprint. Presenting both beginner and advanced steps, Terry includes handy checklists and tables for easy reference, ways to get involved in larger community actions, and profiles of individuals—Plastic-Free Heroes—who have gone beyond personal solutions to create change on a larger scale. Fully updated for the paperback edition, Plastic-Free also includes sections on letting go of eco-guilt, strategies for coping with overwhelming problems, and ways to relate to other people who aren't as far along on the plastic-free path. Both a practical guide and the story of a personal journey from helplessness to empowerment, Plastic-Free is a must-read for those concerned about the ongoing health and happiness of themselves, their children, and the planet.

Oops! Everyone make mistakes at times, and that s what makes us human. The same cannot be said of God because He is a Spirit and the Creator of the Universe. This in itself puts Him in a different category. As a result, He must be seen as Ruler and Lord over everything that He has created. Along with His authority, He is accountable to Himself, since there is none greater, and then to His creation. Equally true, man also share in the responsibility of living in harmony with each other and all creation. However, when history revealed that God has killed an estimation of 20 million people in or about 2500 BC by flood and have prophesied an undetermined amount of future killings it gives rise for great concern and given our human nature we want to know, why. Hence, written in an apologetic style, I Think God Should Apologize looks at God s killings through history and summarized that God by virtue of His righteous and just character will intervene once more in the life of mankind by the same necessity of judgment; failure to do so, means that He would be seen as inconsistent and as such, should apology to the world in
